Tutoring Experience

For the past 6 years, I've guided students through IB and A-Level History, enhancing their understanding of complex historical events and their impacts. My experience has given me unique insights into the specific demands of these curriculums, enabling me to help students prepare for both exams and coursework effectively.

In addition to history, I also tutor students in social sciences and political science at advanced levels, focusing on cultivating critical analysis and discussion skills. My approach has supported students in achieving top results and developing a deeper interest in history and related fields.
