Tutoring Experience

I began tutoring economics and business studies nearly two decades ago and have since worked with a diverse range of students from international backgrounds. Over the years, I have supported IGCSE, IB, and A-Level students, particularly in economics and business subjects. My extensive background in academia has provided me with the resources to help students achieve top grades.

Having taught students in various curriculums, I understand the nuances of each exam board. This allows me to adapt my teaching to best suit the needs of students from different educational systems, including those preparing for AP and IGCSE exams. Additionally, I have guided numerous IB students through their Internal Assessments and Extended Essays, helping them refine their analytical skills.

Beyond school-level tutoring, I have mentored MBA and PhD students in completing their theses and assignments. My publications in international business journals have helped me stay updated in the field, which in turn, supports my students as they tackle advanced topics in economics and business management.
